ACUPUNCTURE & PAIN

Millions suffer from acute or chronic pain every year and the effects of pain cause emotional hardship on patients and their families. Unrelieved pain problems often result in an inability to work or function on a daily basis.

How can acupuncture help?

Acupuncture is a major component of Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM). It originated more than 3,000 years ago and is used to treat pain, illness and improve overall well being. The ancient Chinese found that there are energy channels called meridians that run through the human body including the head, arms, hands, legs, feet, torso, and internal organs. Energy, called chi (pronounced chee), circulates through these meridians to all parts of the body. Its balanced, unimpeded flow is critical to sound health. Any misdirection, blockage, or other derangement of the amount, flow or balance of chi may result in pain, dysfunction, and ill health. By inserting sterile, disposable needles at designated points of the body, the practitioner stimulates and balances the flow of chi.

Acupuncture not only helps to correct chronic conditions, but it also facilitates disease prevention by strengthening the natural immune system.

More and more Western physicians and scientists agree that acupuncture works. The World Health Organization formally recognizes acupuncture as an effective medical treatment. Some common ailments are:

TESTIMONIAL

"I'm a hacker, but I love golf. However, I developed a pain in my lower right back. This affected the torque of my golf swing. I was very "skeptical" at first, however, after having one treatment done, I can say the pain was considerably less. I went back for additional treatments. I no longer have the pain in my back, especially while swinging a golf club and I'm no longer a "skeptic" of acupuncture."—William H.

WHAT TO EXPECT

On your initial visit you will receive a detailed health evaluation with an acupuncture physician. Each physician has a unique style. To determine the type of treatment that will help you the most, your physician will ask you questions about your symptoms, behaviors and lifestyle. They may also closely examine parts of your body that are painful, the shape, coating or coloring of your tongue, color of your face, and the strength and quality of the pulse in your wrist.

Your initial evaluation and treatment may take up to 60 minutes. Your subsequent appointments usually take about a half hour. The number of treatments needed will depend on the condition being treated, the severity, previous surgeries and the patients willingness to make any necessary changes in lifestyle or diet recommendations. It is unrealistic to expect chronic concerns to miraculously disappear in 1-2 treatments. One does not get this way overnight nor will it be fixed in one session. Acupuncture works cumulatively, one treatment builds on the last.

We look for and treat the "root" cause of your symptoms so you can get back your life! Day to day life can be a battle to get through when your dealing with PAIN or suffering from a disorder or disease. Don't waste another day suffering, call today to schedule a health evaluation with one of our physicians.
